JAPS ANNOUNCE PLAN TO BLOCK CANTON RIVER

A Kuomintang (government party) assembly in which he declared that "the eastern Munich" was unthinkable.

The generalissimo spoke before receipt of news of British Prime Minister Chamberlain's statement acknowledging Japanese right-of-way in occupied sections of China.

He said, "Britain will know that Japan is no longer her far eastern watchdog of 25 years ago but rather a mad dog turning against its former benefactor."

CHINESE PRESS CRIES 'ANOTHER MUNICH'

A bitter Chinese press cried "another Munich" today in describing the new acknowledgment by Great Britain that Japanese troops in China have "special requirements" for maintaining public order in the regions under their control.

And, despite her concessions to the Japanese, Chamberlain's statement appeared to increase in north China. British Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax told the House of Commons yesterday in announcing the British-Japanese agreement that he expected anti-British propaganda to increase as a result, but added that it was Japanese from the east.

In Shanghai, British consul general protested that Japanese would generally ignore the British chief of the police and settlement public order department in police of the Japanese-controlled Shanghai municipality.

prompt action, but adjourned without acting on a proposal to give the legislation preferred status. Representative Cox, Democrat, Georgia, a frequent administration opponent, said "we may never vote."

Committee members said the failure to give the housing measure right-of-way might be followed by a similar move against the general lending bill. It was said authoritatively that a combination of Republicans and anti-administration Democrats might wield the committee's "veto power" against the latter measure.

(The committee decides which bills shall have preference in house consideration.)

Senate Republicans and Democrats critical of administration fiscal policies, were busy drafting amendments to curtail the lending measure still further. The senate banking committee already has cut $10,000,000 from the bill.

Senator Taft, Republican, Ohio, said he probably would offer successive amendments to eliminate each section of the bill. Taft said Republicans probably would support amendments by Senator Baird, Democrat, Virginia, to limit the program to one year instead of the proposed seven-year maximum, and to eliminate $500,000,000 of loans for highways and $350,000,000 for public works advances.

WAGE LAW DEFENDS ON RULES COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, July 25.—(AP)—Congressional action on this session on anti-administration proposals to amend the wage-hour law depended today on the outcome of a hearing before the house rules committee.

It was up to the committee to determine whether the highly-controversial amendments offered by Representative Barden, Democrat, North Carolina, should get right-of-way on the house floor. They would exclude from the wage-hour act some "white collar" workers and certain employees in firms which process agricultural products.

Barden was asked to testify, along with Wage-Hour Administrator Andrews and Chairman Norton, Democrat, New Jersey, of the labor committee.

President Roosevelt said at a recent press conference that enactment of Barden's proposals would give unemployment

"We want new members," the witness quoted Cline, "but they must understand that it is hard to be a Communist; they must, upon demand, give up Saturday, Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday; that they must follow the decisions of the party; and that the revolution will be fought with bullets, not ballots."

Bacon was called after the government had elicited testimony that the Communists were trying to obtain members from the United States army and navy personnel. The witness who said this was Theodore Marion Stark of Blaine, Wash. He said he attended party meetings at which Communist infiltration into the armed forces was considered.

The witness said under cross-examination, he resigned from the party to escape disciplinary action, and admitted he once served a sentence in a reformatory for stealing an automobile.

CITIZENS TO NAME THREE ATTORNEYS

NEW ORLEANS, July 25.—(AP)—Citizens from throughout Louisiana planned today to meet in Alexandria Thursday at 1 p.m. to nominate three attorneys and to ask Governor Earl K. Long to select one to aid the attorney general in an "impartial" investigation of the state's political scandal.

But the governor had not indicated whether he favored the plan.

"We asked Governor Long whether he would select the attorney after we nominated three," Joseph A. Airey, chairman of the Citizens' Committee for the State, said. "But we've heard nothing from him about the matter."

Airey said the services of the attorney chosen would be offered to Attorney General David M. Ellison.

ONE WHO STARTED WPA INQUIRY DISMISSED

BATON ROUGE, La., July 25.—(AP)—Hicks Batts, one of the men who made the original affidavits which started a WPA investigation at Louisiana State university which has since spread widely, today reported he had been dismissed from his job as a truck driver at the university.

Batts told reporters that Richard Morhinveig, acting superintendent of construction at the university, yesterday informed him that Colonel Troy H. Middleton, acting vice-president and comptroller, had instructed him to lay off some truck drivers, and Morhinveig had decided to lay Batts off.

Batts reported an altercation followed and he refused to leave the job but later obeyed an order given by two campus officials. He had been employed there for three years, he said.

Batts has been called as a witness before the parish grand jury in its inquiry into state affairs, and also answered questions in New Orleans.

U. S. PROBES MAY QUESTION ON 'HOT OIL'

grand jury had not yet begun its day's work. He was accompanied by his attorney, Edward Richter.

Rankin's resignation was requested by Governor Long late yesterday and State Senator Ernest S. Clements, Long's close friend, was named in his place. Rankin had been under attack from many sides during the past several weeks.

Among the matters in the conservation department drawing wide notice was the conflict of interest in disposal of $450,000 grants of the department for a new geology building at Louisiana State university and reported federal investigation of alleged "hot oil" violations.

George W. Holland of Washington, director of the oil conservation division of the department of the interior, arrived here yesterday. He was accompanied by Jack W. Steele of Kilgore, Texas, chairman of the federal tender board No. 1.

The oil inquiry started last week when Clifford C. Rowland, senior examiner of the oil conservation division, and Donald B. Burnett, examiner assigned to the division, came here and opened offices.

The federal grand jury continued its investigation of a John Rogge, chief of the criminal division of the department of justice, in Washington to seek "two or three assistants" for the Louisiana work from Attorney General Frank Murphy, said that every alleged violation of federal laws would be studied.

"The grand jury investigation may go on for months," Rogge said, "but we hope to get the first trials started early in September. I intend to remain there (New Orleans) and will personally go before the courts to assist the district attorney."

The federal jury and the East Baton Rouge parish grand jury have returned numerous indictments against persons known in Louisiana politics since Dr. James M. Smith, a financial scandal there was charged. Auditors under Frank S. Shattuck, state supervisor of public accounts, remained at work until late last night in the conservation department office.

Long said the audit was being made at the request of Senator Clements, the chief, whom he has asked to reinstate Dr. J. A. Shaw, head of the minerals division. Long said that when he ordered Shaw dismissed recently he thought he was interested in oil supply firms but had since found this was untrue.

Clements said he was "accepting the appointment as temporary and only from the standpoint of a citizen interested in the welfare of our state."

The L. S. U. alumni council adopted a resolution calling for the resignation of members of the university board of supervisors who served under Dr. Smith, asserting that the incompetency of the members made them subject to impeachment.

Tom Dutton, president of the council, said he felt the board was "guilty of acts of commission as well as omission."

"The board," he said, "ratified the purchase of the Bienville hotel when the board attorneys said they had no right to purchase the building."

The federal grand jury has returned indictments against Seymour Weiss, hotel man and ex-treasurer of the late Huey Long's money chest, and four others in connection with sale of the hotel furnishings to L. S. U. Their trial was set yesterday for September 5.

Roland B. Howell, Thibodaux attorney, said at the L. S. U. council meeting that the board members would have to resign to restore confidence in the school.

"I don't say the board members themselves were dishonest but they failed to have an audit made," he said. Dr. George Fastig, who resigned this summer as assistant professor of bacteriology at the L. S. U. medical school here, said he quit "because I knew the system was wrong and it was no longer an honor to be with the school."

He cited as an example of political interference in the school the removal of Dr. Arthur Vidrine as superintendent of New Orleans Charity hospital and dean of the medical school.

The alumni council advocated formation of a statewide committee of 100 or more outstanding citizens, not necessarily alumni of the university, as an aid in investigating the L. S. U. scandal. Additionally, the council advocated appointing an advisory committee of ten members for serving with the L. S. U. president in the current emergency.

The council also voted confidence in Acting President Paul M. Hebert and Acting Vice-President Colonel Troy H. Middleton and voted to mail reassuring letters to parents of prospective students.

Conservation Commissioner Rankin last week angrily denied he would resign, but refused to answer reporters who asked him about the geology building transaction at L. S. U.

His resignation, handed out by Long after a conference with Mayor Robert S. Maestri and others, showed that Long had requested it.

"You have requested that I resign, giving as your reason that you had just become governor and should be given the right to appoint the heads of all executive departments," Rankin said. "Although I am a constitutional official and only removable for cause, it is my desire to aid you in giving the state a good administration. Therefore I resign at your request and I wish you success."

Ellison's opinion was given in a statement to the conservation commission declaring that conservation commission records should be opened to public inspection. Rankin requested the opinion five days ago.

In the absence of any statutes dealing with conservation department records, Ellison said, their inspection him to re-emphasize what Murphy said at his press conference last week. At that time, the attorney general was asked about alleged "closeness" between persons under investigation and the federal government. Murphy's comment was that no one's "closeness" was going to make any difference.

"It isn't even going to make one bit of difference—even should the trial lead to the department of justice," Rogge said. He did not explain this statement.

Two special assistants who are leaving for New Orleans shortly are Harold Rosenwald, special assistant to the attorney general, and Alfred B. Teton, special attorney in the criminal division. Rosenwald was associated with Rogge in the trial to enforce the liability of stockholders of the Central Republic Trust company of Chicago.

Teton was sterling fellow at the Yale law school from 1936 to 1938. Rogge also disclosed he was trying to get Earl Krauter, attorney in the justice department tax division to work on income tax cases in New Orleans. Krauter is now on a government tax case in Chicago.

Asked about reports of alleged intimidation of witnesses, Rogge said he had heard such reports, but had received no complaints.

He cited a federal statute under which intimidation of federal grand jurors is punishable. Any such intimidation, he said, would be prosecuted to the full.

Asked whether he had been in touch with Governor Earl Long, Rogge said he had not. "There is no reason why I should or shouldn't be," he said. "I'll be down there for the next two months and assistants will be there as long as we need them," Rogge said. "The investigation has only begun. We have any number of names we still haven't followed up," he said. He added he did not know whether these leads would pave the way for additional indictments.

Rogge also said he is trying to get the services of Arch Burford, an attorney in the unjust enrichment division of the treasury.

between Bethlehem and Hebron on condition that he not enter Jerusalem before dawn today.

Isahak, however, did not regain his donkeys. They were taken by the abductors when they seized a Golden and his father last Wednesday as they were returning through the Moab hills from Mar Saba. The father was escorted to the outskirts of Jerusalem and freed with a demand that he obtain $5,000 for release of his son.

The donkeyman's story spurred a check of monasteries in the region while word was awaited from a Bedouin go-between who set out from Bethlehem yesterday to establish contact with the roving band somewhere in the Moab hills and make a ransom payment.

One negotiator said the kidnapers had reduced their ransom demand to $2,500 and that the go-between was carrying part of that sum with the remainder to be handed over after Golden reached Bethlehem.

A Bedouin messenger had brought a note from the young clergyman to his father saying that he was "okay" and "if you are too ill to come, the gang swears by Allah someone with the piastres (money) will receive safe conduct."

Alexandria, at the mouth of the Nile, was the intellectual center of the ancient world for 300 years.

Gly-Cas Gave Him Surprising Results

Thousands Laud Gly-Cas For The Glorious Relief It Has Given In So Many Stubborn Cases Of Ill Health.

"In spite of the continued failure of the many medicines I tried, Gly-Cas wasted no time in helping me," said Mr. S. S. Archer, Bossier City, La.

(near Shreveport). "I always had to take the strongest of laxatives to produce any action at all as it was impossible for me to get proper elimination my bowels were so sluggish. My digestion soon became badly affected and indigestion attacks were frequent, foods soured and my stomach bloated dreadfully. Frequent bladder action was a continual disturbance causing me to lose my rest and sleep. Oh, it was many miserable years I spent trying first one medicine after another without any definite relief. . . . until I began Gly-Cas."

"My health troubles began to vanish once I was getting proper elimination of clogged impurities through the efficient action of Gly-Cas," continued Mr. Archer. "My bowels are regular and I no longer have to resort to harsh laxatives. I rest and sleep well each night undisturbed by frequent bladder action, and have no trouble with my digestion, and my meals are a source of enjoyment. An honest trial of Gly-Cas soon proved to me that its outstanding merit."

Gly-Cas is sold at Phoenix Drug company, 348 DeSard street, this city, and by the leading druggists in surrounding towns.—Adv.

THESE THINGS

Making Gold

English Up To Date

Ordinarily, the teacher has his or her hands full. Even following the guidelines, there is no easy job to make a series of the boys at all. With a parent's expect to see them turned out 100 per cent perfect for the battle of life.

But the new wrinkles which are being constantly urged, add to the complexity of a task already taxing. One of the latest is submitted by a business man. He would have school children memorized so as to perform with actual practice in business. For instance, letters would drop the polite introductory "Dear Sir" or "Dear Madam," and get right down to business. Having said what was absolutely necessary, the writer would quit and waste no time on tidiness like "Your humble and obedient servant" nor even the crisp "Yours truly."

This is perhaps a crude example of what pedagogues have to deal with, but it isn't more far-fetched than various of the novel proposals in almost every branch of school work. Our own advice is "Be not the first by whom the new is tried, nor yet the last to lay the old aside."

Hell-Fire In Arabia

It is somewhat startling to learn that three Texans will fly 8,000 miles to Arabia to put out an oil-well fire. To them, however, it is "just a job." They are, of course, experts. It is their business to put out such fires.

To any one not familiar with such a holocaust, the picture is terrifying—ignited gas pouring out of a hole in the ground as though from the depths of hell. These Texans put out the fire by exploding dynamite in the right place. "Just like when you blow a match out."

Some of these fires burn for months or years. The one in Arabia is reported to have begun only about ten days ago. But the people on the spot lost no time before sending for help. They apparently sent in the right direction.

2,784 FARM HOME CONTRACTS GIVEN

WASHINGTON, July 25. — The Farm homestead administration examined contracts during the last year for building 2,541 specially-designed low-cost farm homes at an average expense of $3,474.

We have shown that liveable farm houses can be built in the north for less than $1,400, and in the north for less than $2,500, including profits for contractors and suppliers of material and paying prevailing wages to labor," Administrator W. W. Alexander said today.

BIG LEAGUE LEADERS EXPECTED TO CLIMB HIGHER

HOME STANDS WILL BENEFIT YANKEES, REDS

Couple Of Teams From Other Sections, However, May Get Hot

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

It's hard to see any way to keep the current major league leaders from improving their positions during their home stands which get under way today, but by way of warning, a couple of visiting teams from other sections may be red hot.

New York's mighty Yankees and Cincinnati Reds looked practically invulnerable in their recent road tours. The Yankees won nine out of 12 games to even up their six-straight losing streak. They not only showed all their usual batting power, but had so much good pitching that Manager Joe McCarthy was hard put to give his moundmen more than one workout a week.

The Reds didn't hit so hard, but they didn't have to with the kind of flinging they got from Paul Derringer, Buckly Walters, Whitey Moore and company.

And as a matter of fact, in baseball, any team should be able to do better in familiar surroundings than it can while traveling from one strange park to another.

So much for the Yankees, but how about such contenders as the Chicago White Sox, Boston Bees and Detroit Tigers? The White Sox are in position to bid for the lead in the American League East. They are in good spots to take advantage of it.

The White Sox opened their home stand with a doubleheader against the second-place St. Louis Cardinals. TENNIS RUNS TRUE TO FORM AT SEABRIGHT

Seeded And High Ranking Players Win With Ease In First Round Of Tourney

By J. F. McEvoy
NEW YORK, July 25.—(AP)—Tennis ran true to form Monday in the opening round of the 52nd Seabright Invitational tournament, which is famous for its one or two annual first-round upsets. The seeded performers and others of high rank won with almost monotonous regularity. The only break in the seedings came when second-ranked Gene Mako of Los Angeles defaulted because of a cold in his back.

Back in his first taste of competition since winning at Wimbledon, Bobby Rices of Chicago, the No. 1 man, received a bye. He will not see action until he plays Carlton Roof of Chapel Hill, N. C. Tuesday. Winner in 1937 and 1938, Rices can retire the Seabright high with another victory. Jack Crawford, the veteran Australian, also drew a first-round bye, but the other favorites, from Bryan (Bills) Grant of Atlanta, No. 3, down to Wayne Sahin of Portland, Ore., No. 7, won handily. The four seeded players in the women's singles, headed by last year's runner-up Dorothy May Bundy of Santa Monica, Calif., also won without much trouble. Miss Bundy was seeded first when Alice Marble decided not to defend the women's title.

Only the last two in the men's list, Sahin and sixth-ranked Gardner Mulloy of Miami, Fla., were forced to play extra sets while all the women leaders won in straight sets. Mulloy, making his grass-court debut for the season, turned back the New York Yankee, Arnold L. Bismarck, 6-1, 7-5. Fourth-seeded Edward Gorman of Portland, Ore., runner-up to Rices here last year as well as at Wimbledon, eliminated Philip W. Moore of Montclair, N. J., 6-1, 6-1 and Frank Parker, recent winner at Spring Lake, N. J., won by the same count from John P. Wendell, Princeton university player from Pointon, Pa.

Mulloy lost the first set to Ronald Edwards Berkeley, Calif., southpaw, winning 1-6, 6-2, 6-1, while Sahin prevailed against husky Russell Bobbitt of Atlanta, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3. Miss Bundy, defeated in the first set, eliminated Willie Brown of Philadelphia, 9-7, 6-1, while second-seeded Dorothy Workman of Los Angeles had an easy time with another Philadelphia, Edith Clark winning 6-4, 6-0.

Helena Pedersen of Stamford, Conn., won a 15-minute match of Los Angeles, 6-1, 6-0, and fourth-seeded Margaretta Madden of Boston, 6-4, 6-2, while Judy Atterbury, a home club player, bowed to Miss Wolfendene, 6-1, 6-1.

The Giants were relying primarily on Schumacher and Hubbell. They aren't the peerless duo of other years, and Terry has been forced to rely on the unpredictable performances of Cliff Melton, Bill Lehman, Harry Gumbert and Manuel Salvo.

The injuries and suspensions have hurt, but the collapse of the pitching staff has hurt more. We picked the Giants to finish second, and they were there about a week ago, but unless the pitchers begin to show lasting qualities we wouldn't bet they'll finish before the first frost.

Failure Of Pitchers Hurts Giants Worse Than Injuries

Inability Of Hubbell And Schumacher To Deliver Weakens Club

By Whitney Martin
NEW YORK, July 25.—(AP)—Injuries and other misfortunes have bobbed up like ginger ale bubbles in the National league this season, but they seem to be getting more than their share of the blame for evil days which might befall a team.

Much has been written about the lack of the Giants, all bad. Bill Terry's team has lost nine straight, which is sub-par even on the Phillips course. It lost two shortstops, had an outfielder playing third, and a first baseman pitching, among other things. All of which undoubtedly made Terry's job one large headache, but it also took the spotlight away from what is the major cause of the Giant disaster. That cause could have been discerned by watching the bull pen in deep right center the other day. It was the picture of Carl Hubbell and Hal Schumacher warming up for regular duty.

The Giants' pennant chances hinged on the ability of Hubbell and Schumacher to show their old time form after winter arm operations. The fact that they are being used in relief roles, although also starting, tells its own story. It often has been demonstrated that a club would have its infield crimped up with rheumatism, its outfield growing with plums, and its catching staff stove up with shin splints, and still be a pretty dangerous outfit if it had one thing—able pitching. This is what the Giants haven't had, although it is admitted that air-tight support can make an ordinary pitcher look pretty good, and that a good pitcher might look pretty bad with nothing behind him but his shadow. A shortstop making four errors, as Seale did in one game, could lose a no-hit game.

At present the Giant pitching staff stacks up as the weakest in the league. Terry hasn't a man he can start with any confidence he will be closer than the clubhouse when the last out is made. All the other clubs have chuckers who really are chucking this year. The Reds and Bees are knee deep in good moundmen, with such men as Paul Derringer, Bucky Walters, Junior Thompson, Lou Fette, Jim Turner, and Danny MacFadyen, pitching to victory. The Braves, Cardinals, and Cubs have Cy Young, Bob Weiland, Lou Wanke, and Mort Cooper ready to go all the way. Brooklyn has Luke Hamlin, Hugh Casey, and until recently, had Whit Wyatt. The Pirates have Trusty Sewell, Bob Klinger and Joe Bosman, and the Dodgers have the Red Huns, Cy Blanton, and the lowly Philadelphia have four country chuckers in Hugh Mulhady, Walter Higbee and the ancient Syl Johnson. Old Charles Root is doing right well for the Cubs, and Bill Lee, although not as effective as last year, still is a horse for the road.

The Giants were relying primarily on Schumacher and Hubbell. They aren't the peerless duo of other years, and Terry has been forced to rely on the unpredictable performances of Cliff Melton, Bill Lehman, Harry Gumbert and Manuel Salvo.

The injuries and suspensions have hurt, but the collapse of the pitching staff has hurt more. We picked the Giants to finish second, and they were there about a week ago, but unless the pitchers begin to show lasting qualities we wouldn't bet they'll finish before the first frost.

MONROE TRIMS HELENA TEAM BY 12-1 SCORE

White Sox Aided In One-Sided Game By Loose Playing Of Opponents

Behind the six-hit performance of Tom Perry, a left-hander, who chalked up his tenth win of the season, the Monroe White Sox walloped the Helena Seaporters, 12 to 1, here last night to even the current series with the Arkansas team.

Monroe's parade of runs began in the fourth inning and piled up as the result of 13 hits, ten bases on balls, six stolen bases, a couple of errors, a pair of passed balls, and wild pitch. The Sox had 12 runners left stranded too.

Perry, backed by good fielding, Tom Perry turned in probably his best performance of the season and failed to walk a single batter. The lone run scored off the left-hander was the result of a pair of singles and a stolen base in the third inning. With the exception of Manager "Buster" Blakeney, who scored the only Helena run, only one Seaporter ever got as far as second base, moreover, the visitors had only three left stranded.

Aside from his stellar mound work, Perry also starred at bat, getting two singles in four times at bat, knocking out three runs and scoring twice himself. Three Helena right-handers, Pete Raymond, Jim Grant and Roy Weisenborn, shared the lambasting by the Sox.

Bob Hill, Johnny Conway, Frank Hargrove and Frank Hackney all got two hits each. One of Hargrove's hits was a home run over the right field fence in the sixth inning. Freddie Wiesler led the invaders' attack with three hits, three times at bat. The only extra base blower, other than Hargrove's circuit drive, were doubles by Manager Doug Taitt of the Sox and Pete Ashworth, the Helena catcher.

The Seaporters scored first in the third inning, when Manager Blakeney singled, stole second and scored on Wiesler's single into right field. But the Sox batted around in the fourth and scored five times to take the lead. Murrell Jones walked, Hackney singled and Jones stopped at second. Prutt forced Jones at third. Schang forced Prutt at second, but Hackney went to third. With Perry at bat, Schang went to second unmolested. Perry then singled into left field, scoring Hackney and Schang. Hill walked. A passed ball advanced Perry and Jones to second.

Perry and Hill, Grant then relieved Raymond. With Conway at bat, Perry scored on a wild pitch and Hill went to third. A single by Conway scored Hill. Conway stole second and scored on Hargrove's single. Hargrove stole second, and Taitt walked, but Jones grounded out, Casbier to Hicks, for the third out.

Two more Monroe runs crossed the plate in the fifth. Hackney walked and went to second on Prutt's sacrifice bunt. Schang forced Prutt at second. Then on a double steal, Schang went to second and Hackney scored. Schang made it a triple steal by taking third as Hackney scored. Perry struck out, but Hill singled, scoring Schang. Weisenborn then replaced Grant on the mound for Helena. Hill stole second, but Conway popped out to Casbier at third to retire the side.

Hargrove led off for the Sox in the sixth frame with a home run over the right field fence. Taitt walked and Perry went to second on Jones' single. Hackney singled, scoring Taitt and Jones went to second. Jones and Hackney moved up a base on Prutt's sacrifice, and Schang walked to load the bases. Perry walked, forcing in Jones with a run. Hill was safe when McCollum dropped his fly into short center field and Hackney scored. Schang was thrown out at the plate while following Hackney in. Perry went to third and Hill pulled up at second on the play. Conway was hit by a pitched ball, loading the bases, but Hargrove failed to hit McCollum to end the inning.

Perry scored the final run in the eighth. After two were out, Perry singled into left field and went to

GERRY BERT, 18, LEADING PUBLIC LINKS GOLFERS

Shoots Two-Under-Par Seven To Take Command In Tournament

By Bill Bond
MOUNT PLEASANT GOLF COURSE, BALTIMORE, July 25.—(AP)—Two kids a month out of high school—hunkies from Seattle and Atlanta—outkicked almost 200 of the nation's best public links golfers Monday to lead the pack at the halfway mark in the national tournament qualifying round.

Gerry Bert, Jr., a 206-pound 18-year-old from Seattle, was the No. 1 man with a two-under-par 70 put together brilliantly under a merciless sun on one of the nation's toughest courses. All alone in the No. 2 spot was lanky Luke Barnes, 19, Atlanta, the only other entrant to fracture par. Barnes was a stroke off the pace at 71, achieved despite a broken driver midway in his round.

Teams from all over the country completed the first half of competition for the Harding Cup, awarded to the three-man squad with the lowest gross for 36 holes.

The defending Los Angeles team, Don Erickson, 72, Leonard Egbert, 74, and Jack Brande, 75, posted a 221 total to lead second-place Seattle—Bert, 70, Bart Taro, 75, and Palmer Smith, 79—by three strokes. Lincoln, Neb., had a 228 team total, and the Utica, N. Y., squad posted 230.

The heat and humidity had the field panting like overworked bird dogs, and combined with the layout's accented hazards to send scores skyrocketing—some of them into the unbelievable 90's.

Bert and Barnes were hitting their tee shots a country mile, and their putters were hotter than the weather on the second-place Cardinals. Mike McGee, 71, was a Michael Cestone, 35-year-old Montclair, N. J., mail carrier, Ralph A. Reed of Lincoln, Neb., Arthur Armstrong, the rock-steady kid from Honolulu, T. H., and Erickson, veteran Los Angeles fireman.

The defending champion, Al Leach of Cleveland, started badly with birdies on the first and second holes, but steadied for a 38-37.

Marshall Springer, Chicago, and Paul Genung, Dayton, O., came through with 73's late in the afternoon to join Andy Oliveri, Washington, D. C., Albert Huegelmeier, Baltimore, Louis Cyr, 38, runner-up from Vancouver, Wash., and Stanley Kroll of Utica, N. Y.

Genung had a one-under-par 35 on the out nine, but slipped to 38 coming home, going two over on the "poison" 15th, a 447-yard par 4 with a water-guarded green. Springer had 12 fouls on his card and turned in a steady 37-36.

Kroll's 71 was unusual. It showed nine straight fours going out for a par 36. He got a birdie on the opening par five hole, then went over the par three sixth to lose his advantage. He added four more on the second nine for 13 for the first day.

Oliveri, an end, was hot going out, getting eight pars and a birdie. His rounds were 35-38. Huegelmeier, whose game was perfected on Mount Pleasant, his "home" course, coasted into 35, but slipped to a 38 coming back. On the outward journey, he picked up two birdies. Cyr was even par 36 for the first nine, getting a birdie when his niblick pith on the 23rd-yard sixth sailed over a small lake to settle next to the pin. His putt was easy. On the second nine he went one over on the 10th and 14th but one of those strokes back with a birdie on the 31st-yard 12th.

Four strokes off Bert's pace at 74 were Ted Gwin of Tulsa, Okla., Jack Taubman of Columbus, Ind., Walter Lynch of Utica, N. Y., William Birch of Summit, N. J., Leonard Egbert of Los Angeles, Calif., Edward A. Johnson of Baltimore, Harry Kaufman of Lincoln, Neb., and Wes Dornier of Portland, Ore.

Bert's golf was as hot as the weather as he turned in that 70, but Barnes was not far behind. Barnes in some respects played the more remarkably since the head of his driver became loose and he finished with that handicap.

FANS HAIL REDS ON RETURN HOME

Cincinnati Club Welcomed Back From Most Successful Road Trip Of Season

CINCINNATI, July 25.—(AP)—Those rampaging Reds returned in triumph Monday from their most successful road trip of the season, but their fingers were crossed.

Like their front office, they preferred to leave "pennant enthusiasm" to the million-and-more fans who have seen them in action since April 17. It was "ladies' day" at the union terminal when the team rolled in, wives, children and friends of the players making up a crowd of several hundred.

But more than one back-slapping well-wisher got only "we might have done better" by way of acknowledgment.

This, after nine victories and four losses before nearly 154,000 cash customers that placed them nine games up on the second-place Cardinals.

"It's better to be nine before than nine behind," grinned Gabe Paul, traveling secretary. "Our fingers are crossed."

Not even a reminder that any team playing as well could have copied 20 of the last 25 National league flags appeared to please the boys. The Reds' .639, based on 35 wins and 30 defeats.

Since 1913, when the Giants won with .664, only five teams have annexed the pennant with better ball than the 1939 Rhinelanders:

Cubs of 1918—.651; Cards of 1919—.666; Cubs of 1920—.665; Reds of 1931—.636; Cubs of 1935—.649.

Whatever their outward refusal to count themselves in on the September jackpot, the Reds appeared to hold better than an even chance if only on the basis of their year's work to date.

With slightly better than three-fifths of all remaining games scheduled at home the team so far has played .727 ball in its own back yard, against .587 on the road.
